Description

CEM is a leading supplier of assessment systems to International Schools and the largest provider of computer-adaptive assessments outside the US. A pioneer of school self-evaluation, CEM has over 25 years experience. Today nearly nine thousand schools use CEM monitoring systems, over one thousand of these outside the UK. CEM works in 48 countries with baseline assessments for young children translated into ten languages. CEM provides a range of systems for pupils aged 3-16+ years that can provide powerful information on pupil attainment, ability, attitudes and potential. This can help teachers and headteachers facilitate improvements at the pupil, class, subject and school level, help inform teaching and learning, as well as providing valuable information to monitor school performance.

CEM's systems are available for all English-medium schools following a northern or southern hemisphere timetable and can be conducted via computer and over the internet with ease.
